

The Hartford Balanced Income Fund focuses on a balance of high-quality, dividend-paying companies and investment-grade debt in pursuit of upside potential and lower relative volatility.

Top-Quartile Performance With Below-Average Volatility

Since its inception, the Hartford Balanced Income Fund has provided 77% of the S&P 500 Index's performance while taking on half the volatility.

The Fund also delivered top-quartile performance 100% of the time over all monthly rolling 5-year periods during the same time period.

Performance relative to the S&P 500 Index is calculated by dividing an investment's return by the return of the S&P 500 over the same time period. Beta is a measure of risk that indicates the price sensitivity of a security or a portfolio relative to a specified market index. S&P 500 Index is a market capitalization-weighted price index composed of 500 widely held common stocks. Indices are unmanaged and not available for direct investment. Source: Morningstar, 10/20

Less Downside for a Quicker Recovery

Drawdown is the measurement of how much an investment declines from its peak high to its bottom low before recovering.

In the aftermath of the Global Financial Crisis, the Hartford Balanced Income Fund had a max drawdown of 28% versus 51% for the S&P 500 Index, and recovered its value a full two years quicker than the Index.

Important Risks: Investing involves risk, including the possible loss of principal. Security prices fluctuate in value depending on general market and economic conditions and the prospects of individual companies. The Fund may allocate a portion of its assets to specialist portfolio managers, which may not work as intended. • Fixed income security risks include credit, liquidity, call, duration, and interest-rate risk. As interest rates rise, bond prices generally fall. • For dividend-paying stocks, dividends are not guaranteed and may decrease without notice. • Different investment styles may go in and out favor, which may cause the Fund to underperform the broader stock market. • Foreign investments may be more volatile and less liquid than U.S. investments and are subject to the risk of currency fluctuations and adverse political and economic developments.

Investors should carefully consider a fund's investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. This and other important information is contained in the fund's prospectus and summary prospectus, which can be obtained by visiting hartfordfunds.com. Please read it carefully before investing.
